DEADLY

NEW DRAMAThis City Is Ours

Sunday, 9pm, BBC1
(box set, BBC iPlayer)

Inside a majestic church in Liverpool, a group of family and friends are kitted out in all their finery to celebrate a christening. But beneath the smiles and sharp suits, dark tensions are bubbling...

TV & Satellite Week is on set to watch filming for compelling BBC1 drama This City Is Ours, which centres on gang boss Ronnie Phelan (Sean Bean) and his close-knit band of associates, who are involved with organised crime in Merseyside and run a lucrative operation shipping in drugs from Colombia.

Ronnie is now contemplating a happy retirement with wife Elaine (Julie Graham). But matters take an unsettling turn when the gang renegotiates its arrangement with the Colombians to make more money. After a shipment of cocaine then goes missing, Ronnie starts to suspect that skulduggery is afoot within his ranks...

UNDER THREAT

'This is a story about a family on the verge of being destroyed by ambition, pride and greed. It's profound, funny, shocking and sinister – but real,' says Bean.

'By page nine of the script, I knew that I wanted to be Ronnie. He's eyeing up retirement, just as a rival organisation is preparing to attack. It means taking drastic action, which has repercussions. But the gang are trapped by their own successes and the corruption of power that inevitably surrounds it.'

As the fallout continues, there are also questions over whether Ronnie's loose-cannon son Jamie (Jack McMullen) or loyal aide Michael Kavanagh (James Nelson-Joyce), who has been Ronnie's right-hand man for years, should take over the reins of his empire. And the rivalry between the two young men swiftly escalates...

'Ronnie has been a father figure to Michael; they're close and Michael respects him and has helped him build up the business and is a calming influence,' shares Nelson-Joyce as we sit down with him in a room at the back of the church during a filming break.

'However, Michael's relationship with Jamie is fractious. Jamie believes the business is his natural birthright, whereas Michael believes he has deserved it through his experience. It's a conflict between them.'

While the gangland feuds are the backdrop to the drama, which has been dubbed the 'Scouse Sopranos', its main focus is the men's complex relationships with each other and with their partners. Centre stage is the passionate love story between Michael and his girlfriend,

DYNASTY

COSTA DEL CRIME

While the series is predominantly based in Liverpool, several scenes are set in Spain, where the gang congregates at Ronnie and Elaine's villa.

Other locations include a multimillion-pound cliffside villa that belongs to the South American cartel in the show, while scenes were also shot in one of Spain's national parks.

'We shot in Marbella and had a great time,' says the show's producer Simon Maloney. 'We set Ronnie's villa there because the Costa del Sol is a gateway to Europe. Unfortunately, an enormous amount of cocaine flows through there and many crime gangs work in the area.'

Can the family survive?

Diana Williams (Hannah Onslow), with whom he is undergoing fertility treatment.

'Michael's sole purpose is building a pot of money big enough to start afresh with a wholesome new life,' explains Nelson-Joyce, whose credits include Time – in which co-starred with both Bean and McMullen – and A Thousand Blows.

'Before meeting Diana, he was proud of his job and didn't question it. Now, it's the first time he's been in love, so there's a battle to keep his two lives separate and protect Diana. It's about the lies you tell to keep everyone happy. But Diana starts to question whether she wants to raise a child with this man.'

While some of the drama is set in Spain (see panel, right), most of the series was filmed in and around Liverpool.

'Liverpool is its own little universe. There's solidarity – we back each other and stick together because of what happened with the decimation here in the 1980s,' explains Nelson-Joyce, who hails from the city. 'We're proud of where we're from and who we are, and beauty comes through in our architecture and our culture.'

'This city is always a joy to visit and work in. It's been good to me and has a special place in my heart,' adds Bean, who has filmed several series there including Time and Broken. 'It looks brilliant on film, from the waterfront to Chinatown. This City Is Ours is a great title because it's defiant and triumphant.'

NEW THRILLER

Holland

From Thu 27 March, Prime Video

Nothing is as it seems in Oscar-winner Nicole Kidman's explosive new Hitchcock-style mystery thriller Holland on Prime Video, which is set in the picture-perfect suburbs of Holland, Michigan, famed for its pretty windmills and tulip festivals.

Kidman plays teacher and 'trad wife' Nancy Vandergroot, who lives what she thinks is an idyllic life with her seemingly respectable eye-doctor husband Fred, portrayed by Succession star Matthew Macfadyen.

'When we meet Nancy, nothing in particular about her life is going wrong,' says Kidman, 57, who's recently starred in the streaming series Lioness, The Perfect Couple and Nine Perfect Strangers.

HAVING DOUBTS

'We see her house and family, and she's a picture of what we're told success and stability look like. But we very quickly see that, even though her life appears all well and good, she doesn't feel like it is. I think a lot of people can connect to that feeling.'

'Nancy sees Fred as her rock, her source of stability. He is perfect. He gives Nancy everything she asks for. So, why does she feel this dissatisfaction?'

Things take a menacing turn when Nancy stumbles across a metal box in the garage filled with Polaroids. And their contents give her the chilling feeling that her life isn't as that's always the most enjoyable journey for an actor,' says Norfolk-born Macfadyen, 50.

Gael García Bernal as Dave

'Fred's a descendent of Dutch immigrants, well liked in the town, a stalwart church member and a man who's particularly keen on working every night on his model train set. He's a character I could have a lot of fun with by dialling things up or down depending on the scene.'

The thriller, written by Andrew Sodroski, also features teenage actor Jude Hill, who's starred in A Haunting in Venice and Belfast, as Nancy and Fred's beloved son Harry.

UNDER THE SURFACE

Kidman says that at its heart, it's a film about Nancy's contradictions and suspicions.

'Holland is dark, funny, suspenseful, but also thrilling, romantic and relatable and empowering,' she shares. 'We track Nancy's emotional journey and make sure viewers see past her life's picturesque veneer and feel her underlying discomfort and desires.'

blissful as she thought...

To satisfy her curiosity and her gnawing suspicion that 'perfect' churchgoing, community-minded Fred could be leading a double life, Nancy enlists the help of her friend and colleague Dave Delgado (Gael García Bernal).

'When Nancy feels invisible or stuck in a rut in her life, Dave sees and appreciates Nancy in a way no one else does. Through Dave's eyes, Nancy is able to understand herself again,' explains Kidman.

As the pair follow the clues and unearth family secrets, events take a threatening turn, leaving Nancy's entire life in free fall, as she discovers that nothing is as she thinks it is – not even herself...

WHAT'S NEXT FOR KIDMAN?

Recently seen in erotic-thriller movie Babygirl, Nicole Kidman will next appear in two very different series, both expected on screens later this year.

In Apple TV+'s eight-part drama Margo's Got Money Troubles, she teams up with Elle Fanning and Michelle Pfeiffer in a story about a down-on-her-luck woman who becomes pregnant after an affair with her English professor.

Meanwhile, she also takes on the role of chief medical examiner Kay Scarpetta in Prime Video series Scarpetta, based on the hit Patricia Cornwell books, with Jamie Lee Curtis as her sister, Dorothy.

'We're producing it together and we're in it together – and that's glorious,' says Kidman of Curtis. 'She's unbelievable. She's a force!'

HARD evidence

Did Liz have a hand in the shocking double murder?

THRILLER

Protection

Sunday & Tuesday, 9pm, ITV1

DCI Hannah Wheatley hoped DI Liz Nyles would prove a powerful ally when informant Jimmy McLennan and his wife were murdered in the opening episode of ITV1 crime thriller Protection.

However, as the six-part series continues this week, Hannah is convinced the witness-protection officer had a hand in the killings. Because Liz was responsible for the safety of Jimmy, who was due to be a star witness in the trial of Eddie Crowther, Hannah thinks her colleague helped the kingpin bump off his former employee.

'Hannah is new to the force,' says Katherine Kelly, who plays her. 'But Liz comes from a policing family, so at the start Hannah thinks that Liz could be really helpful, maybe even a bit of a mentor. But those hopes are quickly dashed.'

Her suspicions are aroused by evidence linking Liz (Siobhan Finneran) to DS Paul Brandice (Barry Ward), a new member of Liz's team with whom she has been having an extramarital affair.

Paul was at the McLennans' safe house on the day of the murders – despite not working on the case – and Hannah also found a host of surveillance photos of Liz in his car. But Liz denies any connection and is desperate to prove her innocence.

'As the story unfolds, you see that no one can be trusted,' says Kelly, 45. 'There are so many twists and turns.'

Liz and Hannah might be at loggerheads on screen, but Kelly was delighted to be reunited with her old friend Finneran, after the pair starred together in Season 2 of Happy Valley in 2016.

'It was really nice to spend time with Siobhan on and off screen again,' explains Kelly, who visited Merseyside Police to help her play her detective role.

'I felt policing had changed a lot since I did Happy Valley, so I spent a day on Merseyside as research,' she says. 'One of the perks of this job is getting these exclusive passes into worlds that most people are never let into.'

A match made in DEVON

Sally Bretton and Kris Marshall as Martha and Humphrey

Happy couple Martha and Humphrey face new challenges as the Death in Paradise spin-off returns

NEW CRIME DRAMA
Beyond Paradise
 Friday, 8pm, BBC1

In the last series of BBC1's Beyond Paradise, DI Humphrey Goodman (Kris Marshall) and Martha Lloyd (Sally Bretton) realised their long-awaited wedding day was becoming far too extravagant for their liking and ultimately decided to stay unmarried for the time being.

As the Devon-set Death in Paradise spin-off begins its third outing, the couple remain deeply in love, but soon face new challenges. With Martha deciding to move her restaurant, Ten Mile Kitchen, to bigger premises, the couple find themselves struggling to make time for each other, which leaves them wondering if they can commit to fostering a child in the long-term as they'd hoped.

Here, Marshall, 51, and Bretton, 44, tell TV&Satellite Week what's in store for their characters...

How are Humphrey and Martha doing at the start of the series?

Bretton They had that lovely non-wedding, where they were committed to one another but weren't going to get married in a way that didn't feel right for them, so they're in a happy spot and very together.

Marshall They are a strong, quirky couple and they embrace each other's strengths and flaws. We find them in a really good place, which is needed because they are on this fostering journey, which has its own challenges.

What happens when they're approached about fostering a young girl, Rosie?

Bretton What's new is that Rosie [played by Bella Rei Blue Stevenson] stays with them for quite a long time, whereas their other two placements have just been stopgaps. They have to learn things fast, and embrace the juggling that they've never had to do before. It's a steep learning curve, but they are thrilled to have her.

Marshall With Rosie, there's a bit more reality about it in terms of the day-to-day of being a parent: doing the school run, trying to guide them through life a little bit and show them right and wrong.

The opener sees Humphrey and DS Esther Williams (Zahra Ahmadi) working alongside two Cornish detectives – DI Jacob Tremayne (Steve Oram) and DS Fenella Foster (Gabby Best) – when a body is found on the Cornwall/Devon border...

Marshall I love the idea of Humphrey

DI Humphrey Goodman and DS Esther Williams

and Esther coming up against their Cornish counterparts!

Their introduction could be a bit of a runner, actually, because I think it's our head writer and creator Tony Jordan's nod to the fact that we film Beyond Paradise in both Devon and Cornwall – up and down the Tamar Valley on both sides.

What other cases can we look forward to in this series?

Marshall It's classic Beyond Paradise, in the sense that they're quite representative of the environment – the rural wildness and rugged beauty. We've got one at a regatta, where someone is trying to stop a sailor from winning, and we've got a kidnapping – that one's brilliant. The way it's solved is genius!

You film a lot in the Cornish town of Looe on the south coast. Were you welcomed by the locals when you returned to work on Series 3?

Marshall Yeah, we were. Film crews

ARCHIE'S BACK!

Jamie Bamber on reprising his role of Martha's former flame

When Humphrey and Martha first moved to Shipton Abbott, Martha went into business with Archie Hughes (Strike Back's Jamie Bamber), a charming local businessman who also happened to be her ex-boyfriend. Archie still carried a torch for Martha, but she made it clear his feelings weren't reciprocated, and bought him out of the restaurant after he tried to kiss her.

Archie was absent for the second series, and Bamber assumed that was the end of the character's story – until he was approached about a comeback.

'Characters are there to serve a purpose in the story, and I thought I'd done that in making Humphrey and Martha's new life in Devon a little more complicated,' Bamber, 51, tells TV&Satellite Week. 'So I was delighted when Tim Key, the producer, threw this little idea out about Archie's return, and I thought it was a great take.'

'Archie has tried to learn some life lessons. He's come back with nothing but good intentions...'

don't really go unnoticed, do they? – I think that our crew is about 120 people at times, and then there's all the trucks, lights and cameras. It can be a challenge, but we are shown so much love by the good people of Devon and Cornwall.

Bretton And we're never there for too long, are we? We're only in one place for a little bit and then we move on. I think living permanently with a film crew would get old fast, so hopefully we don't outstay our welcome with the locals!

Killer Rob is desperate

CORONATION STREET

Rob holds Carla hostage... and someone is shot

» Escaped convict Rob Donovan is in a bad way as he hides out at the home of ex-fiancée Tracy. With his wound from where he donated a kidney to sister Carla seriously infected, the odds of him fleeing the country look somewhere between low and zero.

Clutching a gun, the desperate killer demands Tracy bring Carla to him, and the florist persuades her to come over on the premise that she has a business proposition for her.

Carla's horrified to come face to face with her sibling, and as he holds her hostage, it seems Rob is now focused on getting revenge – Carla nearly killed him when she pushed him down the stairs of a disused office block. He's also gunning for her partner Lisa, who lied that she'd get his murder conviction quashed if he agreed to be Carla's donor.

Lisa soon gets wind of the drama that's unfolding, and she's desperate to save Carla from Rob's clutches.

David Blaine: Do Not Attempt

From Monday 24 March, Disney+ (first two eps from 24 March, then weekly), & Thursday, 9pm, National Geographic

He's been buried alive, shackled to a rotating gyroscope and suspended from a crane in a glass box for 44 days with no food. Now, US magician, mentalist and endurance performer David Blaine is on a mission to showcase and learn from performers around the world who have mastered their own dazzling variety of mind-blowing feats.

Despite the show's title including the warning 'do not attempt', Blaine simply can't resist having a go at the stunts himself – which means a pretty steep learning curve as opposed to his usual painstaking preparations.

'I woke up in the middle of the night thinking: "Oh my God, what if somebody tries to copy something?"' he explains. 'And that was when I decided the title needs to be the disclaimer. But for me, the only time you grow is by breaking your comfort zone.'

He's certainly doing that across the six-parter, which starts with a trip to Brazil. There, Blaine sees street magic being performed in the favelas and meets high-diving sisters Jaki and Paty Valente, before attempting a dangerous 'fire jump', which involves leaping from a bridge while set alight.

And in the second episode, set in Southeast Asia, Blaine introduces a highly unpredictable element as he learns tricks featuring dangerous animals including a swarm of bees, scorpions and a king cobra.

ANIMAL MAGIC

After allowing his body to be covered in bees and then scorpions, Blaine, who grew up with a phobia of creepy-crawlies, bravely attempts to kiss the head of a deadly king cobra.

'You don't know what the cobra is going to do from one second to the next, and it has enough venom to kill an elephant!' he reveals. 'So I had no control, which is unusual for me.'

Watching an amazing feat

But with help from a local snake performer, Blaine manages to conquer his fears and kiss the cobra. However, he reveals, once was enough.

'It changed the way I feel about everything that I do. But I will probably never kiss a king cobra again,' he says.

The rest of the episodes take Blaine to the Arctic Circle, India, South Africa and Japan. And despite his have-a-go attitude, there's one point during the series when the 51-year-old decides against a stunt that could result in serious injury, after speaking to his daughter.

The 'fire jump' off
Rio's Joatinga Bridge

'Since becoming a father, everything has changed,' he admits. 'So I talk to her about anything that is dangerous, and I didn't want to do anything that was traumatic for her.'

INSPIRATION

He adds that his love of magic grew out of his own relationship with a parent.

'My mother worked as a waitress,' he recalls. 'And one day, when I was in the library waiting for her to pick me up, the librarian showed me a card trick. And when I did it for my mother, she freaked out! So that began my love of magic, because even if she'd had a tough day, I could change it with a trick.'

Born in Bolton in 1974, Maxine Peake played Twinkle (inset) in sitcom Dinnerladies (1998-2000) and starred as Veronica in Shameless (2004-07). In 2006, she gave a chilling portrayal as killer Myra Hindley in ITV true-crime drama See No Evil: The Moors Murders, and she has also had starring roles in Silk, Little Dorrit, Criminal Justice, Three Girls and Anne, plus episodes of Black Mirror and Inside No. 9.

HER NEW APPEARANCE

Peake heads to the famous tent for this week's heat of The Great Celebrity Bake Off, going up against Roman Kemp, Sarah Beeny and Amelia Dimoldenberg. 'It was lovely chatting to Paul Hollywood and Noel Fielding about Dinnerladies but I'm about as useful in the kitchen as Twinkle was!' laughs Peake, 50. 'I felt bad because Paul and new judge Lady Caroline Waldegrave are experts in their field and they had to watch me destroy a recipe.'

A League of Their Own: The Rally

Tuesday, 9pm, Sky Max & Sky Showcase (box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

The stars of A League of Their Own race across Europe

Three teams of celebrities compete in a challenge-packed race from London to Turin in Sky's three-part special A League of Their Own: The Rally.

The regulars on the hit quiz show – Micah Richards, Jamie Redknapp and Jill Scott – are joined by Tom Davis, Alan Carr, Maisie Adam, Big Zuu and Alex Brooker, who act as co-drivers for the event, while Romesh Ranganathan presents.

Richards with Alex Brooker

'I was partnered with Tom Davis and Alex Brooker,' says former footballer and pundit Richards. 'Tom was on fire from start to finish. Spending all that time with him made me realise how quick he is, and he knew how to navigate any scene to get a funny angle; he was hilarious!' The rally starts with the teams racing from London to the French port of Boulogne-sur-Mer by stunt plane, catamaran and Eurostar. From there, they go to Paris, where their first challenge is to have a romantic photo taken somewhere in the City of Love before taking part in a fencing competition at a historic French chateau.

'I'm not the most elegant of people, but I was actually really good at fencing,' says Richards, 36. 'I was quite agile, although there was a bit of cheating going on! I definitely won, but for some reason, I was marked down!' When the rally headed

NEW COMEDY DRAMA

The Change

Tuesday, 10pm & 10.30pm, C4 (box set, Channel 4)

In the first series of C4's hit comedy drama The Change, menopausal housewife and mother Linda (Bridget Christie) left her husband Steve (Omid Djalili) and teenage children to reclaim her identity by going back to her childhood haunts in Gloucestershire's Forest of Dean.

However, the quirky community were stunned to discover in the finale that Linda had a husband and family.

As the second series begins, Linda is put on public trial and at risk of being expelled. However, when she mentions the ledgers she kept detailing all the hours she spent on domestic chores over the years at the

'That thing was basically like a flying go-kart!' says Richards. 'On Alex's first try, the thing tipped over, and I felt so bad, but he got stitched up straight away.'

Mont Blanc, on the final leg of the journey, provided the scariest but the most fulfilling moment of the competition for Richards.

'I've never been skiing before because you're not really allowed to do it when you're a footballer,' explains the former Manchester City player. 'But we were taken up on this ski lift that looked like it was going to topple over and I don't like heights. Then, we had to trek through this blizzard to get to the slope. But afterwards, I was filled with a real sense of accomplishment.'

Reel panic

Seth Rogen plays a stressed-out studio head in a send-up of Hollywood

Seth Rogen as Matt Remick

The best of Netflix, Prime Video, Disney+ and more...

Apple TV+ The Studio

NEW Available: Wednesday 26 March
Genre: Comedy Season: 1 Episodes: 10
(first two eps from 26 March, then weekly)

Seth Rogen satirises the movie industry in Apple TV+'s new comedy series The Studio, which depicts the power struggles, high-stakes pressure and complete chaos of film-making.

The Superbad star co-created and co-directed the 10-parter with his long-time collaborator Evan Goldberg and also plays eternally flustered Matt Remick – the new studio head at Continental Studios – who craves approval while believing he's 'single-handedly keeping film alive'.

But when the studio's eccentric CEO Griffin Mills (Bryan Cranston) orders him to make a blockbuster based on the Kool-Aid drinks brand, how can Matt make both art and money while corporate demands, egocentric creatives and squabbling executives are driving the company into the ground?

'Evan and I were becoming frustrated by the movie industry in general, so we thought it could be fun to put those frustrations into a television show,' says Rogen, 42. 'And if we were going to do a show about Hollywood, movie studios and the system that we work within, it seemed intuitive as to what it would be like.'

'The style, tone and types of characters seemed obvious, and we're also friends with people who have Matt's job. I'm as frustrated with them as much as I'm sympathetic to the fact that that is their position.'

STAR-STUDED CAST

Matt's dysfunctional team includes brash marketing guru Maya (Kathryn Hahn), ambitious creative executive Quinn (Chase Sui Wonders), plus his best friend, Sal (Ike Barinholtz), who's loved by all the talent. Meanwhile, Matt's embittered predecessor, Patty (Catherine O'Hara), secures a producer deal and now has a front-row seat for his meltdowns.

Also making appearances are a number of familiar names who play exaggerated versions of themselves, including Ron Howard, Charlize Theron, Zac Efron and Steve Buscemi.

Plus, in the opener, Oscar-winning director Martin Scorsese pitches a Jonestown-massacre movie that becomes Matt's Kool-Aid film.

'Getting Academy Award-winning film-makers and movie stars on board was necessary to establish the stakes of the show. If they're not famous people, you don't buy it,' says Rogen.

The series is inspired by Rogen's experiences in the industry and scenes were filmed in one long tracking shot, known as a 'oner', to capture the frenetic energy of a studio.

'We wanted it to be panic-inducing and thought, if we never cut, you'll really be on edge,' chuckles Rogen. 'Because all anyone wants from a relaxing night of watching TV is a panic attack!'

Secrets & Lies

A million dollars is up for grabs in a new Traitors-style game

NETFLIX Million Dollar Secret

NEW Available: Wednesday 26 March
Genre: Reality Season: 1 Episodes: 8
(episodes 1-3 from 26 March; episodes 4-6 from 2 April; episodes 7-8 from 9 April)

How far would you go when a million dollars is on the line? That's the premise behind Netflix's new The Traitors-style reality competition Million Dollar Secret, which puts 12 people against each other as they hunt down the secret millionaire hiding among them.

As guests of a luxury lakeside estate called The Stag, each contestant starts the show by receiving a wooden box. Eleven are empty, but one contains $1m. And it's for that guest to keep – but only if they can hide their identity as the millionaire throughout their stay.

'Imagine finding a million dollars in your room, knowing it's yours to keep, but only if you can hide the fact you've won the money,' says British actor Peter Serafinowicz, who hosts the American show.

Serafinowicz (centre) starts the game

'It's a game of deception. Getting the million dollars is easy, but how far would you be willing to go to keep it?'

STEALTHY STRATEGIES

Like The Traitors, the path to victory and the cash prize is paved with lies, deceit and manipulation, as the contestants try to work out who the secret millionaire is, while, at the same time, the millionaire tries to throw the others off the scent.

There's also a series of outdoor activities, high-stakes missions and devilish games that provide essential clues to the millionaire's identity, plus some undercover tasks set secretly for the millionaire, which, if they complete, could give them extra votes at the dreaded Elimination Dinner.

'For the millionaire, it's a case of, keep your secret, keep your money,' says Serafinowicz, who's known for The Tick and The Gentlemen.

'It will be up to the rest of the guests to find out who has the money and hunt down their millionaire prey. But the millionaire is also playing a game. Every day they'll have their own secret agenda.'

Fake family

Was pastry chef Graham Hornigold conned by his own mother?

NETFLIX Con Mum

NEW Available: Tuesday 25 March
Genre: Documentary

A real-life story of deception is told in Netflix's true-crime documentary Con Mum. The one-off film centres on former Junior Bake Off judge Graham Hornigold, who never knew his mother following a troubled and abusive childhood.

So when he received an email out of the blue in 2020 from a woman called Dionne declaring she was his biological mother, he couldn't wait to meet her.

'That mother-child bond was instantaneous from the second I saw Dionne,' says Hornigold, a renowned pastry chef. 'She knew details about me that nobody else could have.'

Claiming to be the illegitimate daughter of the former Sultan of Brunei, Dionne led a lavish lifestyle. She also revealed she had cancer and promised Hornigold that he'd inherit her wealth.

However, when Dionne began asking Hornigold to lend her vast sums of money because she was having trouble accessing her funds, his partner, Heather, became suspicious.

After some online digging, Heather slowly pieced together that Dionne was a serial con artist who had been scamming people across the globe for decades. She didn't have cancer, wasn't the Sultan of Brunei's daughter and had spent time in jail for deception. But was she Hornigold's real mum?

After Hornigold had lent her close to £100,000, he begged her for a DNA test – and the astonishing results are revealed in the film.

Mortal combat!

A spin-off series highlights the unsung heroes of video-game saga Mythic Quest

Apple TV+ Side Quest

NEW Available: Wed 26 March
Genre: Comedy Season: 1 Eps: 4

For four seasons, viewers have been entertained by the workplace antics of ego-driven creative director Ian Grimm (Rob McElhenney) and the team behind his fictional video game Mythic Quest in Apple TV+'s comedy series of the same name.

This week, that universe is expanding to focus on the 'mortals' – the employees, players and fans – whose lives are all impacted by their beloved video game in the four-part anthology series Side Quest.

'Part of the conceit of the show when we were coming up with what Side Quest could be was this idea that if Ian and the characters in Mythic Quest were gods, these were the mortals that are always getting [taken advantage of] by them,' says Side Quest's co-creator and executive producer Katie McElhenney, who is Rob's sister. 'Side Quest asks: what does it mean to be a rabid fan of a game that's being controlled by people who have their own agendas?'

Side Quest's four stand-alone stories centre on a virtual team of ardent Mythic Quest players; a comic-book store owner and her customers; a group of touring orchestral musicians; and, in the first episode, entitled Song and Dance, fan-favourite art director Phil (Derek Waters).

NO ESCAPE

Phil is taking a break from Mythic Quest HQ to holiday in Hawaii with girlfriend Maude (Anna Konkle) but is constantly interrupted by calls from his boss Ian. Will Phil's dedication to Mythic Quest drive a wedge between him and Maude?

'We knew that if we want to have a character that's going to bring us into this world, it's Phil,' says Katie McElhenney. 'Who hasn't felt underappreciated in their job? And what happens when you're using your job as an excuse to not progress in other areas of your life? Phil was a good conduit for these universal experiences.'

Neil & Martin's Bon Voyage

Tuesday, 9pm, U&Gold (box set, Sky
Box Sets, Virgin TV Box Sets & NOW)

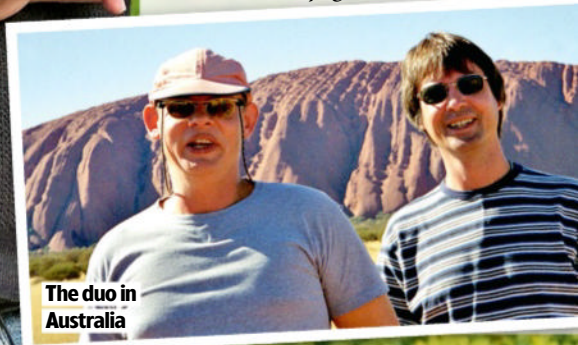

Back in 2000, riding high on the success of playing flatmates Gary and Tony in 1990s 'new lad' sitcom Men Behaving Badly, Martin Clunes and Neil Morrissey teamed up for a trip round Australia in the TV travelogue Men Down Under.

'I remember we went right round Australia following the route the Olympic torch was about to take,' remembers Doc Martin star Clunes, 63, of their Aussie adventure. 'We did all sorts of things, including crocodile hunting and herding cattle!'

A quarter of a century on, the friends are reuniting for a road trip across France, where Morrissey has a second home, for U&Gold's three-part series Neil & Martin's Bon Voyage.

My Brain: After the Rupture

Friday, 9pm (times vary), BBC2

In 2020, 38-year-old BBC Proms presenter Clemency Burton-Hill (above) suffered a catastrophic brain haemorrhage. Against the odds, she survived and, after surgery that removed half her skull, she slowly emerged from a 17-day coma, but was unable to speak or walk. This film follows her remarkable recovery.

Van Gogh by Vincent

Wed, 8pm, Sky Arts

Vincent van Gogh (left) painted more than 35 self-portraits during his career, but what can be learnt about the Dutch artist by taking a closer look at the most personal of his works? This film tells van Gogh's life story through these self-portraits, with contributions from art historians and readings from his private letters.

Stacey Dooley: Growing up Gypsy

Thursday, 9pm, BBC3

Stacey Dooley explores the impact of stereotypes relating to the Traveller community, meeting Serena (above, with Dooley), who successfully runs her own stud farm but feels she has to hide her true identity from her clients, and Chantelle, who embraces her Traveller identity by sharing gypsy cleaning hacks on social media.

The pair enjoy their French connection

The first episode sees the duo, now both in their early 60s, take things at a rather more sedate pace, as they go on a leisurely canoe trip down the Dordogne river, visit the country's deepest wine cellar in a spectacular cave network, and scale Europe's largest sand dune, before heading to the Pyrenees and Biarritz for leg two and Toulouse for leg three.

HIGHLIGHTS

'I was blown away by the caves in the first episode,' says The Good Karma Hospital actor Morrissey, 62.

'I think, for Martin, the highlight was the white horses of the Camargue [a coastal region in the south of France]. He wanted to do everything himself, including taking off the saddles and brushing them.'

As well as seeing the sights, trying out various activities and sampling delicious food and wine, the trip gives the pair a chance to look back over their long friendship, and reflect on how each of them has changed over the years.

'I went to see Martin when he was appearing in Peter Pan in Bristol in 1984,' recalls Morrissey.

'I actually went to see my mate, who was playing Peter Pan, but I've got a feeling we might have had a drink afterwards. And we lived very close to each other, so we used to hang out in certain haunts.'

Being cast in Men Behaving Badly meant they quickly became tabloid fodder and household names.

'We were the kings of the voice-overs for a good while,' recalls Morrissey. 'Then I landed children's TV animation Bob the Builder [in which he voiced the main character], which gave me two No 1 singles!'

So what would their younger selves make of them doing this trip?

'I think it would be a big thumbs up,' says Morrissey. 'He would say: "Call that work, do you? You don't have to learn lines, and you go and see gorgeous places with one of your best mates, and get paid for it!"'

NEW PROFILE

Douglas Adams: The Man Who Imagined Our Future

Thursday, 8pm, Sky Arts

Few authors have been responsible for such a cult phenomenon as Douglas Adams with his comedy sci-fi franchise The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy, which spawned a TV series, comic books, stage shows and a 2005 film.

Now, the story of Adams' spectacular career and troubled personal life is told in Sky Arts documentary Douglas Adams: The Man Who Imagined Our Future.

Born in Cambridge in 1952, Adams was struggling to get his writing career off the ground in London in the early 1970s and had to work as a bodyguard to make ends meet.

'As far as we were all concerned, life was rosy for him,' remembers Adams' brother James Thrift. 'But then my mother went to London and saw that actually things weren't good. So she packed him up and brought him back home to Dorset, back to his old bedroom. There would be this fanatical noise of his old typewriter going and, unbeknown to us, that was the start of the whole Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy.'

The sci-fi sitcom was

The original Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy TV series

originally broadcast on BBC Radio 4 in 1978, but it was soon adapted to other formats, bringing Adams fame and fortune while he was in his 20s.

VISIONARY

'Douglas took a Monty Python-esque view of the world, in which crazy, silly things happen, and applied it to science fiction,' says Adams' childhood friend, actor Griff Rhys Jones. 'Nobody had done that before.'

Adams went on to write Dirk Gently's Holistic Detective Agency, which also inspired radio and TV series, and Last Chance to See, about species on the brink of extinction. A passionate environmentalist, Adams campaigned on behalf of endangered species until his sudden death from a heart attack in 2001, aged just 49.

'He was a visionary,' says his friend Sir Stephen Fry. 'He saw things that other people didn't see, especially things that weren't yet visible to anybody because they were in the future.'

MOVIE OF THE WEEK

THE ELECTRIC STATE

Chris Pratt and Millie Bobby Brown journey through a ravaged land following a robot war

SCI-FI ADVENTURE

Available now, Netflix

If you come to The Electric State knowing the illustrated book by artist Simon Stålenhag on which it is based, you are going to be disappointed. Prime Video's Tales from the Loop does his quiet retro-futurism far more justice. If none of this means anything to you, though, then this adventure from the Russo brothers (Avengers: Infinity War and Endgame etc) is a playfully inventive journey.

After a war between humans and once-subservient robots, all mechanised beings are forced into an enclosure called the Electric State, where people are not allowed. That's not going to stop Millie Bobby Brown's teen rebel, searching for her brother with the aid of Chris Pratt and their robot sidekicks.

In their way are not just scavenger androids but unscrupulous businessman Stanley Tucci and – through a virtual headset linked to a robot soldier – Giancarlo Esposito. So bring on the metal-on-metal bust-ups...

It's a fun, colourful ride, even if the script can't help swigging the saccharin a little too often and could certainly do with sharpening up. Some (but not all) of the CGI is superb, and the Russos can build a family friendly yarn with impressive action sequences in their sleep. Brown isn't too cloying, while Pratt coasts along on charm alone. It's not perfect by any stretch, but it certainly entertains. 2025, 12, 128MIN

PRISON DRAMA

Sing Sing

Available now, Prime Video

Set in the infamous New York penitentiary of the title, Sing Sing is a prison drama with a difference. With the exception of a handful of professional actors, including charismatic star Colman Domingo, the cast is made up of former inmates playing versions of themselves. They have all been through the prison's Rehabilitation Through the Arts programme and the film shows it in action, following the prisoners as they workshop and rehearse a zany time-travel comedy. Domingo's RTA stalwart John 'Divine G' Whitfield (a real person) looms large in the proceedings, but so does the hard-bitten fellow prisoner with whom he initially locks horns, Clarence 'Divine Eye' Maclin, impressively played by the ex-con himself. ★★★★

A quietly brilliant ghost story told entirely from the point-of-view of the entity itself, director Steven Soderbergh's family drama-cum-chiller is not just a technical achievement but a thoroughly engrossing one, too. A silent 'presence' watches as a family – cold, indifferent Lucy Liu, pensive Chris Sullivan and their teenage kids Callina Liang and Eddy Maday – move into their house and it seems to hone in on Liang. She seems to be the only one who can even sense this spirit – but what does it want and why? The mystery unfolds with a gradual grace as we also witness a family in crisis, although when events do come to a head they are positively nerve-shredding, with a masterful Soderbergh knowing just what buttons to push. 2024, 15, 84MIN

Timothée Chalamet is utterly convincing as the young Bob Dylan in this hugely entertaining biopic, which charts the singer's rise to fame from his arrival on the folk scene in New York's Greenwich Village in 1961, aged 19, through to the commotion he causes when he goes electric at the 1965 Newport Folk Festival. Chalamet brilliantly conveys Dylan's charisma, and his ruthlessness, and he does an excellent job of capturing Dylan's unique singing and strumming.

The supporting cast are right on song, too, including Elle Fanning, playing a renamed version of Dylan's early girlfriend Suze Rotolo, Monica Barbaro as folk icon Joan Baez, and Boyd Holbrook as a swaggering Johnny Cash. Best of all is Edward Norton as thoroughly decent, purist folkie Pete Seeger, who becomes Dylan's early mentor but can't accept his later change of musical direction.

Dylan himself remains an enigma to the very end, but far better than the bogus insights offered by other music biopics. Yes, the film tweaks the truth, but that too seems fitting given its subject's lifelong self-invention and myth-making. 2024, 15, 140MIN

A host of track-and-field superstars go for gold in China

ARMAND DUPLANTIS

The Swedish superstar continues to astound in the men's pole vault. He broke his own world record with a vault of 6.27m in February – the 11th time that the Olympic and world champion has broken the record in his career – and the 25-year-old will be aiming to vault even higher as he bids for a hat-trick in Nanjing.

Men's pole vault on Saturday

GRANT HOLLOWAY

The USA's world record holder hasn't been beaten in the men's 60m hurdles for 11 years and has clocked up 82 consecutive wins. Still aged 27, he is targeting a third world indoor title in a row to match his trio of outdoor world titles in the 110m.

Men's 60m hurdles on Saturday

JULIEN ALFRED

The Saint Lucian sprinter stormed to women's 100m gold at the Paris Olympics, beating the USA's Sha'Carri Richardson, also claiming silver in the 200m. The 23-year-old, who had a Saint Lucia national holiday named in her honour, will be in China to defend the women's 60m title she won in Glasgow in 2024.

Women's 60m on Saturday

JAKOB INGEBRIGTSEN

The Norwegian scored a double victory in the Netherlands earlier this month, taking his tally of European indoor golds to a record-equalling seven with a third consecutive 1,500m and 3,000m double. The 24-year-old Olympic 5,000m champion arrives in Nanjing in superb form, having set a new indoor mile record of 3min 45.14sec in February.

THE MAIN EVENT

MOLLY CAUDERY

The Cornish pole-vaulter scored a sensational gold medal in Glasgow when she became GB's first world champion in the event. Despite a disappointing showing at the Paris Olympics, the 24-year-old claimed the World Indoor Tour gold title last month, clearing a season's best of 4.85m. Having missed the European Indoor Championships to focus on Nanjing, can she defend her title?

Women's pole vault on Saturday

YAROSLAVA MAHUCHIKH

The Ukrainian Olympic and world high-jump champion claimed her third European indoor gold in a row a few weeks ago, and now has her sights on winning a second world indoor title. The 23-year-old set a new world record of 2.10m last year, beating Bulgarian Stefka Kostadinova's mark of 1987.

The big-hitting T20 tournament begins its latest edition at Eden Gardens where England's Moeen Ali is back for champions Kolkata Knight Riders, who begin the defence against a Royal Challengers Bengaluru side featuring Phil Salt, Jacob Bethell and Liam Livingstone in Saturday's opening fixture. Other England players include Jos Buttler, who has signed for Gujarat Titans, while the player auction in November saw Lucknow Super Giants' Rishabh Pant become the IPL's most expensive signing, South Africa's Heinrich Klaasen became the most expensive retained player at Sunrisers Hyderabad, and 13-year-old prodigy Vaibhav Suryavanshi the youngest player at an IPL side, Rajasthan Royals.

World Cup qualifiers

Saturday, Monday & Tuesday, BBC1 (Wales only), BBC3, ITV1 & S4C

Wales get their World Cup qualification under way with an opening Group J match against Kazakhstan in Cardiff on Saturday (7.45pm, BBC3, BBC1 in Wales, & S4C), followed by a trip to North Macedonia on Tuesday (7.45pm, BBC3, BBC1 in Wales, & S4C). Craig Bellamy's side go into the games full of confidence after an undefeated Nations League campaign when four goals from Fulham's Harry Wilson saw the Dragons gain promotion. On Monday, Thomas Tuchel's England play their second Group K fixture when Latvia visit Wembley for a first meeting between the nations (7.45pm, ITV1).

KIDS WATCHLIST

Great shows for young viewers (from tots to teens) on linear TV and streaming

CRONGTON

Monday, 7pm, BBC3 & BBC iPlayer

From award-winning writer and comedian Archie Maddocks comes this comedy drama, based on the books by Alex Wheatle. Set on an urban housing estate, a group of kids have to navigate social politics and peer pressure, all while trying to find where they fit in a world that is full of possibility but also littered with danger.

Producers held an open-casting call for young actors, and the cast do great job of bringing the stories to life - particularly Samson Agboola (centre), who plays Lemar (aka Little Bit).

ANDY AND THE BAND: ROCK STAR SCHOOL

Weekdays, 5.40pm, CBBC & BBC iPlayer

Andy and the Odd Socks' world tour is in jeopardy before it's even started! Taking a detour to say goodbye to Moxy's old teacher, the band discover that Ramshackle School is about to be closed down, and the kids need their help. Could the Odd Socks turn their hands to teaching to save the school? Watch out for guest stars including Kaiser Chiefs' Ricky Wilson.

More great shows to watch this week...

Sneaks

Fri, 8.40am & 6.25pm, Sky Premiere

This superfun animated adventure features a designer sneaker called Ty (voiced by Anthony Mackie), who has to venture onto the streets of New York City and dig deep into his sole (get it?) to rescue his missing sister.

PREMIERE

Swipe It! With Joe Tasker

Weekends, 2.45pm, POP/POP Player

YouTuber Joe Tasker attempts weird challenges, from the Power Rangers Dino Fury dance, to having a go at throwing a slider onto his own foot.

Draw with Will

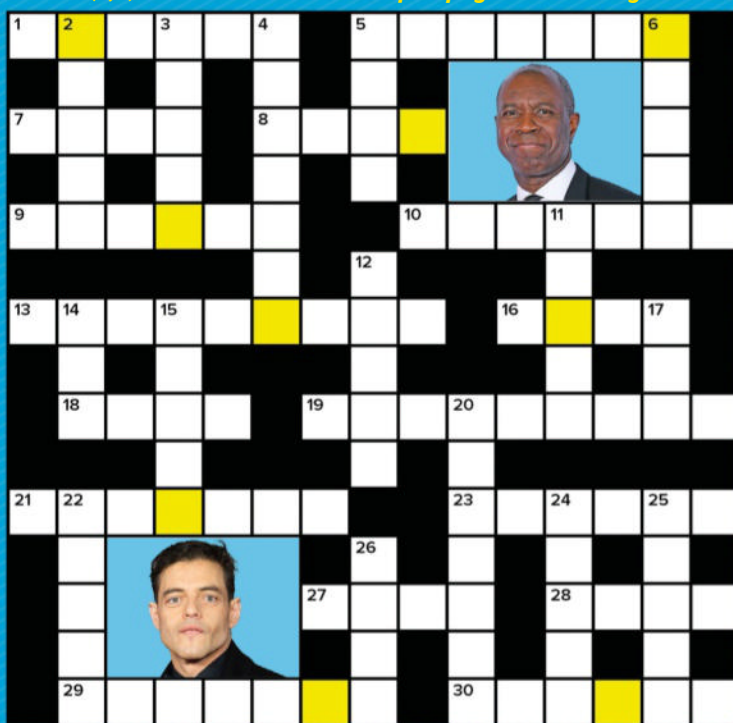

From Mon, Sky Kids

Comic-book artist Will Sloney returns with more step-by-step guides on how to draw your favourite characters, from the Minions and Shrek, to Isadora Moon and BooSnoo!

Havoc

Tom Hardy plays a haunted cop in a tense action thriller

Here's a sneak peek at Tom Hardy in Netflix's fast-paced drama about a US detective who lands himself in danger when underworld figures place his city under threat.

The one-off film, available from Friday 25 April and written and directed by Gangs of London co-creator Gareth Evans, sees Hardy as rule-breaking cop Walker, who faces a race against time to try to rescue the estranged son of a dodgy politician after a drug deal goes badly awry.

But troubled Walker's own past comes back to bite him as he begins to uncover a chilling conspiracy, while a ruthless crime gang is also out to make him pay, and his own colleagues are keen to bring him down.

TALENTED CAST

Jessie Mei Li plays Walker's new police partner Ellie, and Forest Whitaker, Timothy Olyphant, Justin Cornwell, Quelin Sepulveda, Luis Guzmán, Michelle Waterson, Sunny Pang, Jim Caesar, Xelia Mendes-Jones and Yann Yann Yeo co-star.

'Havoc is my love letter to the heroic bloodshed genre, the films that came out of Hong Kong in the 80s and 90s, but it's also a hard-boiled, noir-ish cop thriller,' says Evans. 'Walker is an antihero at times and tackles problems with brute force, and Tom brought all the shades of the character and a huge amount of physicality.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Davina McCall

In BBC1's dating series Stranded on Honeymoon Island, the presenter oversees proceedings as 12 singletons are paired up. After they marry, they must survive in a tropical paradise with limited resources.

Steve Carell

The actor will appear in an as-yet-untitled Sky film written and directed by Succession creator Jesse Armstrong, which co-stars Jason Schwartzman and follows billionaire pals during an international crisis.

Coming Back

Motherland spin-off Amandaland will return for a second run on BBC1 as divorcée Amanda (Lucy Punch) continues to make her mark, alongside pal Anne (Philippa Dunne) and mum Felicity (Dame Joanna Lumley).

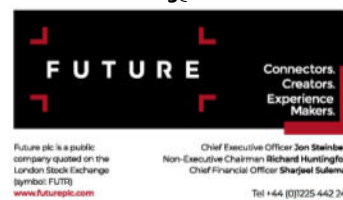

Sanjeev Bhaskar and Sinéad Keenan are reprising their roles as DI Sunny Khan and DCI Jess James in a seventh series of ITV1 crime drama Unforgotten, in which the dogged cops will delve into another sensitive cold case.
